bel Leads McDonald y Slim Vote

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Shoot-for-a-bird upset I. W. Abel by a slim unofficial lead of 1 over incumbent David J. McDonald in steelworkers' ballot for a president.

ASSOCIATED PRESS tabulation gave Abel a 3,000-vote edge to 2,184 of the union's 3,000 in reporting.

Abel's headquarters gave him much bigger lead. McDonald's ad claimed their man was dead.

The vote was close enough to steelmakers' slouch, fearing the election might wind in a court battle and delay shipment of basic steel contract.

ABEL HAS BEEN Secretary-treasurer of the 980,000-member Steelworkers Union—acquired by the No. 2 position—through McDonald's 12 years as president. The election was expected to close.

Neither candidate was unopposed. Abel held a 131,590 to 172,249 advantage in the AP tabulation.

Abel's headquarters in Chicago see their man a bigger edge—302 to 131,281.

AT THE SAME time, the McDonald camp in Pittsburgh reported him leading 157,802, to 99,000.

Neither candidate was available for comment.

THE 56-YEAR-OLD Abel, who retired out as a mill hand and led his way up through various union offices, accused McDonald in campaign speeches of riding away policy-making power from the rank and file and concentrating it in the higher levels union organization.

library Receives wo Paintings from Clark Family

The library announced Wednesday that two paintings have been received from the J. Reuben Clark, Jr. family in memory of a former church leader. Both paintings were the property of the President Clark.

TO THEM OF THE LAST AGON" was given to President Clark on his 83rd birthday in 1953. It portrays a family in a covered wagon descending Immigration Canyon from the now famous "This is the Place" monument site.

The second painting is a portrait of President Clark presented to him on his birthday in 1953.

THE ARTIST, Lynn Fausett, formerly of Price, Utah, has used minerals for ward chasels, iron ore, and Kennecott Copper Corporation in New York according to Keith Ward, in charge of library gifts and exchanges. The two paintings will be displayed on the fourth floor of the library near the entrance the Pioneer Room.

Winter Carnival Concert To Feature Folk Singers Peter, Paul and Mary

Peter, Paul and Mary, nationally known folk song trio, will be displaying their talents Friday evening in the BYU Smith Fieldhouse before thousands of students.

PETER YARROW and Paul Stookey both went through college, but the music field seemed to have more appeal to them than the business world. Peter graduated from Cornell University and Paul earned his way through Michigan State University.

Although all have Peter play now is the guitar, he plays the violin in his youth and has a promising talent as a painter.

PAUL ADAMS the right blend of the trivial and profound to polish the trio, according to manager Al Grossman.

It seems that the Village had a magnetic force pulling all three members together. Mary Travers, who has been singing folk songs since her kindergarten days, was scared to sing by herself until Paul got her on the stage and she was forced into singing. Previously she had been a member of some teenage folk groups, but had never tried by herself.

MARY STILL LIKES to make a lot of noise, as she did in her high school days, so Peter takes on himself to quieten her down at times.

Manager Al Grossman had hopes for a top trio for a long time and when he discovered how well Mary fit in with Peter and Paul he knew he had the perfect blend for a No. 1 group.

THE WINTER CARNIVAL Dance will be held after the Peter, Paul and Mary Concert. The semi-formal event will be in the Y Center Ballroom where students will dance to the music of the Pier International, an 18 piece orchestra from Salt Lake City.

Smith Family Living Center will feature music by Gene Peterson. Admission for the dance is $1.50 a couple. Tickets can be purchased at the Y Center Desk.

Doug Calder Snow King; Melody Named Queen

After the votes were counted Wednesday evening, Carolyn Tueller announced the two lucky students who were to wear the crown of Snow Queen and King.

Doug Calder, sponsored by the Alpine Club won the title of Snow King. Doug is a senior majoring in advanced public relations. A member of the BYU Mountain Rescue Team, the 1965 Snow King hails from Thompson, Manitoba, Canada.

Skiing and hockey are Doug's favorite winter sports. Doug is no amateur when it comes to the activities of Snow King. He placed second in the Class B Slalom race of last year's Sportsman Cup.

When he was told of his victory, he expressed gratitude to the Alpine Club for being his sponsor.

Taking him as far as the finals was the skiing ability he displayed in the sports competition.

The title of Snow Queen was given to Melody Matheny. This coed was sponsored by the Hawaiian Club. She is a member of the Senior House of Representatives and has attended the Church College of Hawaii. Her major is elementary education and she enjoys skiing, roller skating and ice skating. It was her skiing ability that placed her in the finals for Snow Queen.

Snow Queen and King were chosen by personal interviews, performance in the sports competition and student vote. Candidates were permitted to enter only one sports event.

"Legends in Snow Motion," the theme for Winter Carnival will come to a close Friday night when the student body will be entertained by Peter, Paul and Mary in the concert. Students are reminded to be in their seats no later than 6:50 p.m. to be able to enjoy the program to be presented by these famous folk singers.

Immediately after the concert, students are offered further entertainment in the form of dances scheduled in the Y Center and the Smith Family Living Center.

Melody Matheny and Doug Calder are handed crowns as Brigham Young University studentbody reveal their choice for Snow King and Queen. Royalty will be honored at concert and dance to climax Winter Carnival Week.

Study? Sorry—All Full

...Have you ever walked into the library for a quick hour of study between classes and found the "Sorry, all full" sign greet you?

Just this morning, on the fourth level there were nineteen carrels and tabletops with books and purses presumably saving space for future use during the day. This was at 8 a.m.

During the busy hours of the day, the most convenient place to leave books, purses, and coats is in the library—preferably on a table or carrel to insure a place to study upon returning.

There are some students in the university who are polite enough to respect other's property and will assume that the seat is taken. Because students leave their personal belongings in the library, it cuts down on the usage of the study facilities by 50 per cent.

Coat racks are provided throughout the library for the express purpose of hanging coats on them. If the racks aren't being used for that purpose, perhaps we could use the space more profitably by converting it to book shelves.

Students who care so little about their books and purses are taking a chance by leaving them in the library. Even though we have an honor code, there are those who do not uphold it.

According to library policy, if someone does carelessly leave books on a desk, other people wishing to use the study area may carefully push his books to one side, while he uses the desk.

Even graduate carrels which are assigned may be used if not occupied by a graduate student. However, if the graduate student wishes to use it, he have the courtesy to give him his rightful study booth.

It is not only annoying to have books lying all over when you are trying to find some place to study, but it is inconsiderate of those who do so.

Everybody has the right to use the library study facilities.

Campus Comment and Controversy

Be Original

I would like to suggest to students in general that we recognize and take advantage of our innate creative ability.

By creative, I mean simply being inventive. Before continuing I would like to point out just three things.

1. Every problem personal or otherwise is a creative challenge. We can best solve our imaginative by attacking them imaginatively.

3. By this and other such exercises we can help keep our creativity from growing weaker, and can even build it stronger all through life.

The real purpose for education, and particularly college education, is to prepare us to be more successful in our future lives.

In order for us to be that successful person, we must not only learn to use our own thought processes, but even hitch-hike. By hitch-hike I mean adding your own thoughts to those that have already been brought forth, resulting in a new concept.

This is one reason many great men of our past and present history are great men. Even without the formal schooling they have mastered their real power, the ability to think, even if it's only twice a week.

Too often we have the undesirable habit of repressing the natural creative thrust. I say this from an overall standpoint (in regards to both teacher and student). For instance let's say we were to write a paper for English 111, and when I turn in my paper, the professor tells me it would be good, if this were a class in creative English. I would more than likely have to do the paper over again and lose a grade for turning it in late.

This type of suppression is accomplished by students as well. In other words, student don't like to see others get ahead, and as a matter of fact, usually try to take courses that won't make them extend themselves.

Hugh Mearns formed a Department of Creative Education at New York University and headed it from 1926 to 1946. It was abandoned when he reached retirement age. The explanation was no one else could be found to fill his shoes.

The University of Buffalo installed a course in creative thinking and it engendered such comment from the students that enrollment more than doubled at the semester. But on the eve of the third semester, the instructor—a business executive—had moved to Detroit. After a frantic effort to find a replacement the course was withdrawn.

What the students say about the course shows how keenly they hunger and how deeply they appreciate this type of education. Instructors invariably found it difficult to end each class.

This type of program may well be hard to start on a class level. The only reason I mention these other schools starting their courses is to point out the thirst that students have for this ability; especially once they find out the joy it brings. This thirst can be satisfied by recognizing and offering incentive for the fulfillment of this need. This incentive should be offered rather than incarcerated by friends and instructors, both in and outside of the classroom.

Bad Weather Reduces Plane Search

NEW YORK, (AP)—Falling weather Wednesday sharply reduced the effort to find the main wreckage of an airliner which plunged into the sea killing all 84 persons aboard.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATORS view recovery of the wreckage as vital to solving the mystery of what caused the Eastern Air Lines DC7B to go down in the Atlantic, eight miles off Jones Beach, Monday night.

"It," said Edward E. Slatery Jr., spokesman for the Civil Aeronautics Board, "the wreckage is the corpus delicti. It is the same as the body in a murder case."

"We have to have something to touch, feel and study."

Winds increasing up to 24 miles an hour, growing sea swells and fog caused the Coast Guard to order four of its smaller vessels to leave the search area.

HOWEVER, A 175-FOOT buoy tender equipped with underwater detection equipment and two scuba divers aboard remained on duty.

The first day of the search recovered bits of debris and several bodies, previously reported as from 7 to 10. The variance was due to the mutilated condition of the remains.

Minutes after taking off from New York's Kennedy Airport, the 52-year airliner dove from 3,700 feet into the sea.

Some quarters suggested the message involved the ideological dispute between Moscow and Peking. Tass News Agency merely said Chou and Chen met Koygin and his party at the airport and Chou "accompanied the Soviet delegates from the airport to their residence."

"WE ARE READY. If the U.S. Imperialists insist on going their way we know full well how to cope with them."

There was no indication of what Koygin and Chou talked about. Western diplomats in Moscow speculated Koygin left a message when he passed through Peking Friday on his way to Hanoi and was picking up the Chinese reply.

'Fighting Will Settle Nothing'... DeGaulle Offers Help

PARIS, (AP)—President Charles De Gaulle said Wednesday that fighting will settle nothing in Southeast Asia, and again offered to help negotiate a neutralization of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

A GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN, reporting on a meeting of De Gaulle with his cabinet, said De Gaulle was not surprised by the flareup of fighting in the last two days.

The new position confirms De Gaulle's view that a neutralization should be negotiated, he said.

This means that all the countries involved in the area—formerly, French Indochina—would have to promise to keep out of each other's affairs.

De Gaulle said he stood ready to participate in a new session of the 1954 Geneva Conference which ended the Indochinese war in which France was involved. But the initiative for calling new talks belongs to Britain and the Soviet Union, co-chairman of the Conference.

DE GAULLE FIRST URGED a negotiated neutrality for the troubled Southeast Asian countries in 1963. No one in the French government has yet described a method of enforcing the hands-off premises on which the neutrality would rest, however.

The restatement of the French position was the first official reaction to the attacks in South and North Viet Nam, and the attempted coup d'etat in Laos.

De Gaulle's conviction probably is based largely on France's experiences in her own Indochinese war and her long terrorist war against Algerian Nationalists.

IN THE INDOCHINESE WAR, the toughest troops of the French army tried vainly to match the hit-and-run tactics of the jungle-bred Vietnamese guerrillas. Their efforts came to a climax of national disgrace with the loss of isolated Dienbienphu in a bloody 55-day siege.

Big WAC Guns Levelled As Civil War Resumes

by Stan Hodge
Sports Editor

Note: Sports Editor Stan Hodge will represent the Daily Universe at the games in Laramie and Albuquerque this week. For his first hand reports of the games see the Universe Friday (Wyoming game) and Monday (New Mexico game).

AT THE ONE THIRD mile post BYU and Utah will travel to Wyoming and New Mexico for a series of tilts which is bound to bring the race into sharper focus. All four teams are still pennant contenders with BYU, New Mexico, and Wyoming out in front with one loss apiece. The series will open Thursday with BYU at Wyoming and Utah at New Mexico. Saturday they will trade opponents.

IT'LL BE GEE whiz all the way. BYU's leading the nation offensively, Utah's got the 12th best scoring unit, and Wyoming is flirting with the top 20 themselves. Where does that leave New Mexico?—As the best defensive team in the nation.

BYU's rated 14th in the nation while New Mexico pulled the 13th spot. . . something's got to give. THE FAST-BREAKING Cougars, averaging 45.7 points a game, will be after their 16th win of the season against the Laramie five, Wyoming's Flynn Robinson, however, holds a narrow lead in scoring honors with an average of 22.3 points per (conference) game—1.7 points ahead of John Fairchild.

Robinson will be trying to hold his place 13th among the nation's scorers. Fairchild is Robinson's closest rival in the Cowboy guard's bid for a third straight WAC scoring title.

WYOMING BOSS Bill Strannigan planned defensive strategy sessions for workouts this week. "Our defense at CSU was ragged," Strannigan says, "and we've got to straighten that out . . . right now. We must play our best defensive ball of the year if we hope to match Brigham Young."

BYU All-American candidate John Fairchild represented the team when he said, "This week will be the turning point. If we can win two we'll be right on top and ready to go."

Openhouse . . .

Sportsminded Meet Tonight

The Collegiate Athletic Association cordially invites all male members of BYU to attend their openhouse to be held at the Y Center Ballroom, Thursday, Feb. 11, 7:30-9:30 p.m.

The CAA helps promote all phases of the University Athletic program. A great number of BYU athletes affiliated with CAA help recruit the prospective athletes to our campus.

At the social end of the organization they have activities such as a Deer Bust in the Fall, a Black and White Formal in November, and a year end dinner dance.

In the men's division and series in the women's division, the broomball hockey championships Wednesday in Winter Gardens.

A defeated the Sportsmen in a spirited contest, 5-3 and series and kicked their last the Dingers, 7-1. All but of the goals scored by the n's championship team were into the goals.

THE TIME COMES

that a provision is inserted into the broomball hockey rules for penalties, there will be much more skill involved in the game. Another change that will inevitably come to the sport would not allow players to kick the ball, but to score they must swat it with their brooms.

In the semi-finals CAA handed the Dutch Club a thorough drubbing, wiping them out 12-2.

The Reemles beat the Sports-women also in a semi-final contest.

You only know the half of it.

Our business no longer hangs by a fiber—cellulosic or otherwise. Far from it. We're researching, producing and marketing a rich range of products—chemicals, plastics, paints, forest products and petroleum products—all over the world.

Sales have more than quadrupled in the past 10 years. "Celanese" sales growth, its hefty interests in chemicals and its hugely expanded foreign operations have already moved it into a big new class", said CHEMICAL WEEK in a recent article.

What does this mean to you?

Since our future expansion depends on our continued ability to develop top-notch people, it is, after all, in our own best interest to bring you along as fast as you can take it, and give you all the support you need—in your technical specialty or in management.

LET'S MAKE A DATE Give our college representative a chance to fill you in on more of the specifics. He will be on your campus within the next two weeks—arrange through your Placement Office to see him. If you miss our visit, drop a postcard listing your major study to Mr. E. J. Corry, Supervisor of College Relations, Celanese Corporation of America, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10036.
